

SUSHANT DIGITAL PRODUCTS

30

Day Digital Detox

Reclaim Your Focus From Your Phone

A day-by-day challenge with simple daily actions, trackers and reflection pages to help you use your phone less and live more.

30-Day Digital Detox

Reclaim Your Focus From Your Phone

© 2026 Sushant Digital Products. All rights reserved.

This book is for your personal use. You're welcome to print pages for yourself and your household. Please don't share, resell or redistribute the file.

This book offers general habit and lifestyle guidance. It is not medical or psychological advice. If phone use is seriously affecting your health, sleep, work or relationships, please speak to a qualified professional.

App names and phone settings mentioned in this book may change over time. If a setting has moved, search for it in your phone's Settings app.

Contents

Welcome	4
How to Use This Book	5
Why Your Phone Is So Hard to Put Down	6
Where Are You Now? Self-Check	7
Your Baseline Numbers	8
My Why	9
Tool 1: The Mindful Pause	10
Tool 2: Add Friction	11
Tool 3: Replace, Don't Just Remove	12
Week 1: Awareness (Days 1–7)	13
Week 2: Friction (Days 8–14)	22
Week 3: Replace (Days 15–21)	31
Week 4: Rebuild (Days 22–30)	40
30-Day Tracker	51
Phone Setup Checklist	52
50 Things to Do Instead of Scrolling	53
If You Slip: The Reset Plan	54
Final Review: Day 1 vs Day 30	55
My Phone Rules	56
Certificate of Completion	57
Thank You	58

Welcome to Your Detox

You don't need to throw your phone away. You need to take back control.

Your phone is one of the most useful tools ever made. It connects you to family, helps you work, pay, learn and find your way. The problem isn't the phone. The problem is how easily it takes over time and attention you never meant to give it.

Maybe you've noticed it: picking up your phone to check one thing and looking up 40 minutes later. Reaching for it the moment you wake. Feeling restless in any quiet moment. Finding it harder to read a book or finish a task without checking something.

None of this means you lack willpower. Many apps are built by large teams whose job is to keep you scrolling. You're up against clever design, so you need a clever plan.

This challenge won't ask you to quit your phone. It will help you use it on purpose, instead of on autopilot.

Over the next 30 days you'll take one small, practical action each day. Each one takes about 10 to 20 minutes, or simply a change in how you do something you already do. Step by step, you'll notice your habits, make the unhelpful ones harder, replace them with things you enjoy, and build rules that last.

By Day 30, you'll have your own set of phone rules, a calmer relationship with technology, and more time for the people and things that matter to you.

Let's begin.

How to Use This Book

One action a day

Each day has one clear action. Do it, tick the box and answer the reflection question. That's all.

Four weeks, four steps

Week 1 Awareness · Week 2 Friction · Week 3 Replace · Week 4 Rebuild. Each week builds on the last.

Print or use on screen

Print the pages and write by hand (recommended), or use the book on a tablet with a notes app.

Track as you go

Use the 30-Day Tracker near the back to log your screen time each day and watch the numbers fall.

The ground rules

1. Progress, not perfection. Missed a day? Simply pick up where you left off. One slip doesn't undo your progress.
2. Keep what works. Each action is an experiment. Keep the ones that help, and let the others go.
3. Be honest, not harsh. Write down your real numbers and feelings. No one else needs to see them.
4. Start today. You don't need a perfect Monday. Day 1 can be today.

Tip: Do the challenge with a friend or family member. Check in with each other every few days. It's more fun, and you're far more likely to finish.

Why Your Phone Is So Hard to Put Down

Knowing how the hook works makes it easier to break.

Every habit follows the same simple loop: a trigger (something prompts you), an action (you do something) and a reward (you get a small good feeling). Repeat it enough times and it becomes automatic. Your phone is perfectly designed to run this loop hundreds of times a day.

1

Trigger

A buzz, a quiet moment, boredom, stress or simply seeing your phone.

2

Action

You unlock, open an app and start scrolling, often without deciding to.

3

Reward

A new message, a like, a funny video. A quick hit of novelty that makes you want more.

The features that keep you hooked

Unpredictable rewards

You never know if the next refresh will bring something exciting. That uncertainty is exactly what makes checking so hard to stop.

Endless scrolling

Feeds never end, so there's no natural moment to stop. Your phone never says "that's enough".

Notifications

Red badges and buzzes are built to feel urgent, even when the message isn't.

Always within reach

Your phone is with you everywhere, so the trigger is never far away.

The good news: the same loop that built the habit can unbuild it. This challenge works on all three parts: you'll notice your triggers, interrupt the action with a pause and some friction, and find better rewards.

Where Are You Now?

Score each statement honestly: 0 = never, 1 = sometimes, 2 = often, 3 = almost always.

#	STATEMENT	0	1	2	3
1	I check my phone within 10 minutes of waking up.	☐	☐	☐	☐
2	I pick up my phone without a clear reason.	☐	☐	☐	☐
3	I lose track of time while scrolling.	☐	☐	☐	☐
4	I use my phone during meals.	☐	☐	☐	☐
5	I feel anxious or restless without my phone nearby.	☐	☐	☐	☐
6	I use my phone in bed before sleeping.	☐	☐	☐	☐
7	I check my phone while talking to people.	☐	☐	☐	☐
8	I find it hard to read or focus for 20 minutes.	☐	☐	☐	☐
9	I check notifications as soon as they arrive.	☐	☐	☐	☐
10	I reach for my phone when I'm bored, even for a few seconds.	☐	☐	☐	☐
11	I've tried to cut down before and gone back to old habits.	☐	☐	☐	☐
12	My phone use gets in the way of sleep, work or family time.	☐	☐	☐	☐

My total score: _____ / 36

0–9 · Mostly in control

You have a healthy base. Use the challenge to sharpen your focus and protect your time.

10–20 · Slipping into autopilot

Your phone takes more than you'd like. The daily actions will make a clear difference.

21–36 · Your phone is in charge

This challenge was made for you. Go one day at a time, and be kind to yourself.

Take this self-check again on Day 30 and compare your scores.

Your Baseline Numbers

Fill this in on Day 1. You'll compare it with your Day 30 numbers.

On Android

Open Settings and search for Digital Wellbeing. You'll see today's screen time, unlocks and notifications, and your most-used apps.

On iPhone

Open Settings, then Screen Time, then See All App & Website Activity. You'll see daily averages, pickups and notifications.

Date

Average daily screen time

Pickups / unlocks per day

Notifications per day

Most-used app #1 and its time

Most-used app #2 and its time

Most-used app #3 and its time

First thing I do after waking

Last thing I do before sleeping

When do I use my phone most?

- | | |
|--|--|
| ☐ Morning in bed | ☐ Commute |
| ☐ At work or study | ☐ Meals |
| ☐ Evening on the sofa | ☐ In bed at night |
| ☐ In the bathroom | ☐ While waiting |

BEFORE YOU BEGIN

My Why

People who know why they're changing are far more likely to keep going.

Why do I want to use my phone less?

What has my phone been costing me? (sleep, focus, time with family, health, mood)

What would I love to do with an extra hour a day?

How do I want to feel on Day 30?

I, _____, commit to the 30-Day Digital Detox. I'll take one small step each day, and if I slip, I'll simply start again.

Signature

Start date

Tool 1: The Mindful Pause

The most important habit in this book. Use it every time you reach for your phone.

Most phone checking happens in under a second, before you've even decided. The Mindful Pause slows that moment down just enough for you to make a real choice. It's adapted from an approach shared by performance and brain researcher Dr. Sahar Yousef in a conversation on The Raj Shamani Show, explained here in this book's own words.

1

Pause

Before you unlock your phone, stop. Hold it, or leave it where it is. Don't open anything yet.

2

Breathe

Take slow breaths for about 60 seconds. Breathe in through your nose, and let the breath out a little longer than it came in.

3

Ask why

Ask yourself: "Why am I picking this up right now?" Is it something I need, or am I bored, tired, anxious or avoiding something?

Then choose

If you have a clear reason

Go ahead. Do that one thing, then put the phone down again.

If there's no real reason

Put it down. Do something from your reach-for list instead, or simply carry on with what you were doing.

Why it works: the urge to check usually fades within a minute if you don't act on it. The pause gives it time to pass, and asking "why" turns an automatic habit into a conscious decision.

Tool 2: Add Friction

Make the habits you want to break harder to do.

One of the most useful ideas from James Clear's book Atomic Habits is simple: the easier a habit is, the more often you'll do it, and the harder it is, the less you'll do it. Instead of relying on willpower, you change your surroundings so the bad habit takes more effort.

Each extra step, even a few seconds, gives your brain a chance to ask, "Do I really want this?" Often the answer is no.

Easy now	Add friction like this
Social app on your home screen	Move it into a folder on your last screen
Always logged in	Log out, so you must type a password every time
Colourful, attention-grabbing screen	Turn on grayscale
Phone charging next to your bed	Charge it in another room overnight
Unlimited scrolling time	Set an app timer that locks the app
App on your phone	Delete it and use the website only when needed
Phone in your pocket at all times	Leave it in a bag or another room while you focus

The flip side: make good habits easier too. Keep a book on your pillow, a journal on the table and walking shoes by the door.

Tool 3: Replace, Don't Just Remove

Fill the gap with something better before the phone fills it for you.

When you cut back on scrolling, you'll suddenly have small gaps in your day: waiting moments, quiet evenings, the minutes before sleep. If you haven't planned what to do with them, your hand will go straight back to your phone.

The answer is to have a few easy, enjoyable options ready. You'll build your personal list on Day 15. Here are some ideas to start with.

In 2 minutes

- Drink a glass of water
- Stretch your neck and shoulders
- Step outside and look at the sky
- Take five slow breaths
- Tidy one small surface
- Water a plant

In 10 minutes

- Read a few pages of a book
- Write in a journal
- Do a short home workout
- Call someone you care about
- Make a cup of tea and drink it slowly
- Sketch or doodle

In 30 minutes or more

- Go for a walk without your phone
- Cook a new recipe
- Play a board game or cards
- Work on a hobby or craft
- Visit a friend or neighbour
- Learn a song, a skill or a language from a book

Remember: the goal isn't to fill every minute. Sometimes the best replacement is simply resting and letting your mind wander.

WEEK 1

Awareness

Days 1–7

You can't change a habit you can't see. This week is about noticing: how much you use your phone, when you reach for it, and why. You won't cut much yet. You'll simply watch, write things down, and make three small changes that give you breathing room.

This week you'll

- ✓ Know your real screen-time numbers
- ✓ Spot your personal triggers
- ✓ Protect the first 30 minutes of your day
- ✓ Silence the notifications that don't matter

-
- | | |
|---|------------------------------|
| 1 | Look at the Numbers |
| 2 | Catch Your Triggers |
| 3 | Protect the First 30 Minutes |
| 4 | The Notification Clean-Up |
| 5 | Practise the Mindful Pause |
| 6 | A Calmer Home Screen |
| 7 | The Phone-Free Meal |
-

1

Look at the Numbers

Open your phone's screen-time report (Digital Wellbeing on Android, Screen Time on iPhone). Copy yesterday's total, your number of pickups and your top three apps onto the Baseline page.

☐ I did today's action☐ I used the Mindful Pause

Screen time today: _____

How I felt: 😞 😐 😊 😄

TODAY'S ACTION

Try this: Notice the moment just before you reach. What were you feeling or avoiding?

Bored
A notification
Avoiding a task

Stressed or anxious _____

Waiting or in a queue _____

Just habit _____

☐ I did today's action☐ I used the Mindful Pause

Screen time today: _____

How I felt: 😞 😐 😊 😄

Which trigger came up most? When during the day was it strongest?

Protect the First 30 Minutes

Checking your phone the moment you wake hands your morning to other people's news, messages and opinions. Keeping the first half hour for yourself sets a calmer tone for the whole day.

TODAY'S ACTION

Tonight, charge your phone outside your bedroom, or at least out of arm's reach.
Tomorrow, don't touch it for the first 30 minutes after you wake up.

Try this: Use a cheap alarm clock so your phone isn't your alarm. It removes the excuse to have it by your bed.

☐ I did today's action☐ I used the Mindful Pause

Screen time today: _____

How I felt: 😞 😐 😊 😄

What did you do with those first 30 minutes? How did the morning feel?

Go to Settings, then Notifications. Keep calls, messages from real people, and essentials like bank OTPs and your calendar. Turn off everything else: shopping, games, news, social media likes and 'suggested for you' alerts.

How I felt: 😞 😐 😊 😄

Practise the Mindful Pause

The Mindful Pause is the core tool of this challenge (see page 10). It puts a few seconds of choice between the urge and the action. Today you'll practise it until it starts to feel natural.

TODAY'S ACTION

Use the Mindful Pause at least five times today: pause before you unlock, breathe slowly for about 60 seconds, then ask yourself, 'Why am I picking this up right now?'

Try this: Put a small sticker or a rubber band on your phone as a physical reminder to pause.

☐ I did today's action☐ I used the Mindful Pause

Screen time today: _____

How I felt: 😞 😐 😊 😄

What answers did you give to 'Why am I picking this up?' Did any surprise you?

TODAY'S ACTION

Move every social media, video and game app off your home screen into one folder on your last screen. Keep only useful tools on the first screen: phone, messages, camera, maps, calendar, payments.

Try this: Name the folder something that makes you pause, like 'Is this worth it?'

How I felt: 😞 😐 😊 😄

TODAY'S ACTION

Eat every meal today without your phone. Leave it in another room, face down and on silent. If you eat with others, ask them to join you.

Eat every meal today without your phone. Leave it in another room, face down and on silent. If you eat with others, ask them to join you.

☐ I did today's action

Screen time today: _____

☐ I used the Mindful Pause

How I felt: 😞 😐 😊 😄

Looking Back on Week 1

Average daily screen time this week

Change since my baseline

Actions I completed

☐ Day 1 ☐ Day 2 ☐ Day 3 ☐ Day 4 ☐ Day 5 ☐ Day 6 ☐

Day 7

What worked best for me this week?

What was hardest, and why?

One change I'll keep going

What I'm looking forward to next week

WEEK 2

Friction

Days 8–14

Now that you know your patterns, you'll make the bad habits harder to do. Every extra step between you and a time-wasting app gives your brain a moment to choose. This week you'll add those steps on purpose.

This week you'll

✓ Add friction to your most-used apps

✓ Create phone-free zones at home

✓ Set limits that switch on automatically

✓ Spend half a day mostly offline

8	Log Out of One App
9	Go Grayscale
10	Set Automatic Limits
11	Create Phone-Free Zones
12	Delete One App
13	Batch Your Checking
14	A Half-Day Off

Log Out of One App

Staying logged in makes an app effortless to open. Logging out adds a small barrier, and that small barrier is often enough to break the autopilot.

TODAY'S ACTION

Pick the app you lose the most time to. Log out completely. From now on, if you want to use it, you'll have to type your password each time.

Try this: Let your password manager forget the password too, so the friction stays real.

☐ I did today's action☐ I used the Mindful Pause

Screen time today: _____

How I felt: 😞 😐 😊 😄

How many times did you open the app and see the login screen? Did you log back in?

Go Grayscale

Apps are designed with bright colours and red badges because they grab attention. A grey screen is simply less exciting, so you'll want to look at it less.

TODAY'S ACTION

Turn on grayscale. Search your phone's Settings for 'grayscale', 'colour filters' or 'colour correction' (on many Android phones it's in Digital Wellbeing's Bedtime mode or Accessibility; on iPhone it's under Accessibility, Display & Text Size, Colour Filters). Keep it on all day.

Try this: Many phones let you set a shortcut, such as a triple-click of the side button, to switch colour back on when you need it.

☐ I did today's action☐ I used the Mindful Pause

Screen time today: _____

How I felt: 😞 😐 😊 😄

How did a grey screen change how much you wanted to scroll?

Set Automatic Limits

Willpower runs out by evening. A limit that switches on by itself does the work for you when you're tired.

TODAY'S ACTION

Set a daily time limit on your two most-used apps using App Timers (Digital Wellbeing on Android) or App Limits (Screen Time on iPhone). Choose a limit about half of your current daily use.

Try this: Ask a friend or family member to set the Screen Time passcode on an iPhone so you can't easily override it.

☐ I did today's action☐ I used the Mindful Pause

Screen time today:

How I felt: 😞 😐 😊 😄

Did you hit your limit? What did you do when the app locked?

Create Phone-Free Zones

Places shape habits. If your phone is allowed everywhere, it ends up everywhere. A few clear 'no phone' spots make the decision for you.

TODAY'S ACTION

Choose at least two phone-free zones, such as your bedroom and the dining table. Set up a charging spot outside your bedroom, and stick to these zones from today.

Try this: Put a small basket or tray in the hallway as the phone's 'home'. It works well for the whole family.

☐ I did today's action☐ I used the Mindful Pause

Screen time today: _____

How I felt: 😞 😐 😊 😄

Which zone was hardest to keep? Why?

12

Delete One App

Delete the app you would miss the least. If you truly need it now and then, use its website in your browser instead, which is slower and less tempting.

☐ I did today's action

Screen time today: _____

Which app did you delete? Did you miss it today?

Batch Your Checking

Checking messages every few minutes keeps your mind in constant 'standby'. Checking at set times lets you be fully present in between.

TODAY'S ACTION

Choose three or four set times to check messages and email today, such as 9 am, 1 pm, 5 pm and 8 pm. Outside those times, keep the apps closed.

Try this: Tell the people closest to you: 'If it's urgent, call me.' Real emergencies come as calls.

☐ I did today's action☐ I used the Mindful Pause

Screen time today:

How I felt: 😞 😐 😊 😄

Did anything important get missed? How did the gaps between checks feel?

14

A Half-Day Off

Spend four hours with your phone switched off or in another room, for example on a weekend morning. Plan something to do in advance: an outing, cooking, a visit or a project.

☐ I did today's action

Screen time today: _____

How I felt: 😞 😐 😊 😄

Looking Back on Week 2

Average daily screen time this week

Change since my baseline

Actions I completed

☐ Day 8 ☐ Day 9 ☐ Day 10 ☐ Day 11 ☐ Day 12 ☐ Day 13

☐ Day 14

What worked best for me this week?

What was hardest, and why?

One change I'll keep going

What I'm looking forward to next week

WEEK 3

Replace

Days 15–21

Cutting screen time leaves a gap, and gaps get filled. If you don't choose what fills them, the phone will. This week is about building a list of better things to reach for, and trying a new one each day.

This week you'll

- ✓ Build your personal reach-for list
- ✓ Rediscover reading, walking and real conversation
- ✓ Get comfortable with boredom
- ✓ Start a calm, phone-free evening routine

15 Build Your Reach-For List

16 Read for 20 Minutes

17 Walk Without Your Phone

18 Call, Don't Scroll

19 Practise Boredom

20 Make Something

21 The Digital Sunset

Build Your Reach-For List

When the urge to scroll hits, you need an easy alternative ready. If you have to think of one in the moment, the phone wins.

TODAY'S ACTION

Fill in the reach-for list on this page: things you can do in 2 minutes, 10 minutes and 30 minutes instead of picking up your phone. Keep it somewhere you'll see it.

Try this: Include tiny options, like drinking a glass of water, stretching or stepping outside. Small is easier to start.

2 minutes

10 minutes

30 minutes

☐ I did today's action☐ I used the Mindful Pause

Screen time today:

How I felt: 😞 😐 😊 😄

Which item on your list did you actually use today?

Read for 20 Minutes

Reading a book trains the deep, steady attention that endless scrolling wears down. Many people find their focus comes back within a week of daily reading.

TODAY'S ACTION

Read a paper book or an e-reader for 20 minutes, with your phone in another room. Any book you enjoy counts.

Try this: Keep a book where you usually scroll, such as by the sofa or your bed, so it's the easiest thing to pick up.

☐ I did today's action

☐ I used the Mindful Pause

Screen time today: _____

How I felt: 😞 😐 😊 😄

What did you read? Was it hard to stay focused at first?

17

Walk Without Your Phone

Take a 20-minute walk without your phone or earphones. Notice what you see, hear and smell along the way.

☐ I did today's action

Screen time today: _____

What thoughts came up during your walk? What did you notice?

18

Call, Don't Scroll

Call or meet one friend or family member today and have a real conversation. No texting, no voice notes.

How I felt: 😞 😐 😊 😄

Practise Boredom

We now reach for the phone the moment we feel bored, so we've forgotten how to just be. Boredom isn't a problem to fix. It's where rest and creativity begin.

TODAY'S ACTION

Sit for 10 minutes doing nothing at all: no phone, no TV, no book. Also, the next time you wait in a queue or for a lift, leave your phone in your pocket.

Try this: Look out of a window, notice your breathing, or simply let your thoughts drift.

☐ I did today's action☐ I used the Mindful Pause

Screen time today:

How I felt: 😞 😐 😊 😄

How did the 10 minutes feel? Did it get easier towards the end?

20

Make Something

Spend 30 minutes making something with your hands: cook a new dish, draw, write, garden, fix something, build or craft.

How I felt: 😞 😐 😊 😄

The Digital Sunset

Screens late at night keep your mind switched on and can make it harder to fall asleep. A phone-free hour before bed helps you wind down.

TODAY'S ACTION

Put your phone away at least one hour before bed. Replace that hour with reading, stretching, journalling, a warm shower or talking with family.

Try this: Set a daily alarm called 'Digital sunset' to remind you when it's time.

☐ I did today's action☐ I used the Mindful Pause

Screen time today: _____

How I felt: 😞 😐 😊 😄

How did you sleep? How did you feel the next morning?

Looking Back on Week 3

Average daily screen time this week

Change since my baseline

Actions I completed

☐ Day 15 ☐ Day 16 ☐ Day 17 ☐ Day 18 ☐ Day 19 ☐ Day 20
☐ Day 21

What worked best for me this week?

What was hardest, and why?

One change I'll keep going

What I'm looking forward to next week

WEEK 4

Rebuild

Days 22–30

The last stretch is about making the changes stick. You'll sharpen your focus, tidy your digital life, bring the people around you on board, and write the personal phone rules you'll keep long after Day 30.

This week you'll

- ✓ Practise deep, single-task focus
- ✓ Clean up feeds and messaging apps
- ✓ Get support from family and friends
- ✓ Write rules you'll keep for life

22 One Thing at a Time

23 Tame Your Messaging Apps

24 Clean Your Feeds

25 Try a Minimal Phone Setup

26 A Low-Phone Day

27 Bring Others In

28 Check Your Values

29 Write Your Phone Rules

30 Look Back and Celebrate

One Thing at a Time

Switching between tasks and your phone leaves you tired and slow. Doing one thing at a time, fully, gets more done with less stress.

TODAY'S ACTION

Do two focus blocks today: 25 minutes on one task with your phone in another room, then a 5-minute break. Repeat.

Try this: Before you start, write down the single task you'll work on, so you don't drift.

☐ I did today's action☐ I used the Mindful Pause

Screen time today: _____

How I felt: 😞 😐 😊 😄

How much did you get done in your focus blocks compared with usual?

Mute every group chat that isn't essential. Archive old chats. Turn off message previews on your lock screen. If read receipts or 'last seen' make you feel pressure to reply, consider switching them off.

☐ I did today's action☐ I used the Mindful Pause

Screen time today: _____

How I felt: 😞 😐 😊 😄

How many chats did you mute? Did you feel less pressure to reply?

Clean Your Feeds

What you see shapes how you feel. Accounts that leave you anxious, jealous or angry are costing you more than time.

TODAY'S ACTION

Go through the accounts you follow. Unfollow or mute anyone whose posts leave you feeling worse. Keep the ones that teach, inspire or genuinely connect you.

Try this: Ask yourself about each account: 'Do I feel better or worse after seeing this?'

☐ I did today's action☐ I used the Mindful Pause

Screen time today: _____

How I felt: 😞 😐 😊 😄

How many accounts did you remove? How does your feed feel now?

Try a Minimal Phone Setup

A simpler home screen makes your phone feel like a tool again instead of an entertainment machine.

TODAY'S ACTION

Try a minimal setup for the day. On Android, you can install a minimal launcher app such as Minimalist Phone, which shows a calm, text-only list of apps. On iPhone, use a Focus mode with a home screen page that shows only your essential apps.

Try this: Give it a full day before deciding. The first few hours always feel strange.

☐ I did today's action☐ I used the Mindful Pause

Screen time today: _____

How I felt: 😞 😐 😊 😄

Did the simpler setup change how often you opened your phone?

26

A Low-Phone Day

Use your phone today only for calls, essential messages, maps and payments. No social media, no videos, no browsing for fun.

☐ I did today's action

Screen time today: _____

How I felt: 😞 😐 😊 😄

27

Bring Others In

Tell your family, partner or friends what you've been doing and why. Agree on one shared rule, such as no phones at dinner or a phone basket after 9 pm.

☐ I did today's action

Screen time today: _____

Who did you talk to? What rule did you agree on?

TODAY'S ACTION

Write your top three priorities in life right now. Then look at your screen-time report and ask how well your phone use supports those priorities.

Write your top three priorities in life right now. Then look at your screen-time report and ask how well your phone use supports those priorities.

☐ I did today's action

Screen time today: _____

☐ I used the Mindful Pause

How I felt: 😞 😐 😊 😄

TODAY'S ACTION

Write five personal phone rules you'll keep after Day 30, on the 'My Phone Rules' page. Choose the changes that made the biggest difference for you.

Write five personal phone rules you'll keep after Day 30, on the 'My Phone Rules' page. Choose the changes that made the biggest difference for you.

☐ I did today's action

Screen time today: _____

☐ I used the Mindful Pause

How I felt: 😞 😐 😊 😄

30

Look Back and Celebrate

Check your screen-time report and fill in the Final Review page. Compare your numbers with Day 1, then sign your certificate.

☐ I did today's action

Screen time today: _____

☐ I used the Mindful Pause

How I felt: 😞 😐 😊 😄

Change since my baseline

☐ Day 22 ☐ Day 23 ☐ Day 24 ☐ Day 25 ☐ Day 26 ☐ Day 27 ☐ Day 28 ☐ Day 29 ☐ Day 30

30-Day Tracker

Log your numbers each evening. Watching them fall is a great motivator.

Day	Screen time	Pickups	Action done	Pause used	Mood / notes
1			☐	☐
2			☐	☐
3			☐	☐
4			☐	☐
5			☐	☐
6			☐	☐
7			☐	☐
8			☐	☐
9			☐	☐
10			☐	☐
11			☐	☐
12			☐	☐
13			☐	☐
14			☐	☐
15			☐	☐
16			☐	☐
17			☐	☐
18			☐	☐
19			☐	☐
20			☐	☐
21			☐	☐
22			☐	☐
23			☐	☐
24			☐	☐
25			☐	☐
26			☐	☐
27			☐	☐
28			☐	☐
29			☐	☐
30			☐	☐

Phone Setup Checklist

Tick each item as you set it up during the challenge.

Notifications

☐ Only people and essentials can notify you

☐ Lock-screen message previews off

☐ App badges (red dots) off

Home screen

☐ Only tools on the first screen

☐ Social and video apps in a folder on the last screen

☐ A plain, calm wallpaper

Limits

☐ App timers on your top two apps

☐ Bedtime or Downtime schedule switched on

☐ Grayscale shortcut set up

Apps

☐ Logged out of your biggest time-waster

☐ Deleted at least one unnecessary app

☐ Group chats muted

Habits

☐ Charging spot outside the bedroom

☐ Alarm clock instead of phone alarm

☐ Phone-free meals and zones agreed

Helpful built-in tools: Digital Wellbeing (Android) and Screen Time (iPhone) both offer app timers, bedtime schedules and focus modes for free. Optional apps such as Minimalist Phone (Android) offer a calmer, text-only home screen. Features and names can change, so check the current version in your app store.

50 Things to Do Instead of Scrolling

Tick the ones you want to try. Circle the ones you love.

- | | |
|--|--|
| ☐ Read a novel | ☐ Go for a walk |
| ☐ Call a friend | ☐ Cook something new |
| ☐ Write a letter by hand | ☐ Do a puzzle or crossword |
| ☐ Practise yoga or stretching | ☐ Play a musical instrument |
| ☐ Draw or paint | ☐ Plant something |
| ☐ Organise a drawer | ☐ Visit a library |
| ☐ Play cards or a board game | ☐ Learn to juggle |
| ☐ Write in a journal | ☐ Bake for someone |
| ☐ Go cycling | ☐ Sit in a park |
| ☐ Teach a child a game | ☐ Clean and sort your wardrobe |
| ☐ Try a new recipe from a cookbook | ☐ Visit a temple, museum or market |
| ☐ Do a home workout | ☐ Meet a friend for tea |
| ☐ Write down three things you're grateful for | ☐ Fix something broken |
| ☐ Watch the sunset | ☐ Learn a few words of a new language |
| ☐ Knit, sew or embroider | ☐ Plan a weekend trip on paper |
| ☐ Have a family dinner with no screens | ☐ Repot your plants |
| ☐ Make a photo album from printed photos | ☐ Go for a swim |
| ☐ Volunteer locally | ☐ Take a nap |
| ☐ Play with a pet | ☐ Listen to music, doing nothing else |
| ☐ Rearrange a room | ☐ Practise a sport |
| ☐ Do a breathing exercise | ☐ Memorise a poem or verse |
| ☐ Write a short story | ☐ Help someone with a chore |
| ☐ Go stargazing | ☐ Make a vision board with paper |
| ☐ Learn origami | ☐ Sort out old papers |
| ☐ Take a different route home | ☐ Simply sit and think |

If You Slip: The Reset Plan

Everyone slips. What matters is how quickly you come back.

A bad day doesn't erase your progress. One evening of scrolling doesn't mean the challenge has failed. It means you're human. The people who succeed aren't the ones who never slip. They're the ones who restart quickly.

1

Notice, don't judge

Say to yourself: "I slipped. That's okay." Guilt makes you more likely to reach for the phone again.

2

Find the trigger

What led to it? Tiredness, stress, boredom, a notification? Write it down.

3

Restart small

Pick the easiest action from this book and do it right now. Then carry on with the next day.

My usual slip moments are...

When that happens, I'll...

Never miss twice: missing one day is normal. Try not to let one missed day become two in a row.

	Day 1	Day 30	Change
Daily screen time
Pickups per day
Notifications per day
Self-check score
Hours of sleep

My Phone Rules

Your personal rules for after the challenge. Keep them where you'll see them.

1

2

3

4

5

Examples to inspire you

“ My phone charges outside the bedroom every night.

“ No phones at the dinner table, for anyone.

“ I use the Mindful Pause before I unlock.

“ No phone for the first 30 minutes of the day.

“ I check messages at set times, not all day.

“ Social apps stay off my home screen.

My plan for keeping my rules (who will support me, when I'll review them)

CERTIFICATE OF COMPLETION

30-Day Digital Detox

This certifies that has completed the 30-Day Digital Detox challenge and taken back control of their time and attention.

Date

Signature

Thank you

Thank you for choosing this book and for giving these 30 days your time. Every small step you took was a choice to live more on purpose.

Keep this book. Come back to it whenever you feel your old habits creeping back. Any day can be Day 1 again.

If this challenge helped you, I'd love to hear about it. Your feedback helps me create more useful resources.

metangesushant7@gmail.com

Sushant Digital Products

Digital Products Made to Make Life Easier